What Are Delegate Members?

Member companies that want to provide their employees with the opportunity to benefit from AmCham Germany's advantages can appoint so-called "delegates". These Delegate Members may be located at the company's headquarters, in branch offices or subsidiaries – in Germany or abroad.

This way, companies can build and strengthen their networks at various company levels and at different locations.

Delegate Members are not listed separately in the AmCham Germany Yearbook, but under the main entry of their member company.
